PRESS RELEASE #3.22.2019

Subject: City of Martinez and Martinez Chamber of Commerce Hosting Lunch & Learn Business Workshop on Crisis Resiliency

Contact: Zach Seal, Economic Development Coordinator, (925) 372-3563

MARTINEZ – An emergency or large scale disaster can impact your business by taking a toll on owners, employees, and profits. The good news, however, is that your business can rebound quickly.

To help raise awareness and build resiliency in times of crisis, a collaborative effort between the cities and chambers of commerce of Martinez, Pleasant Hill, Concord, and Walnut Creek is underway in partnership with the Contra Costa Small Business Development Center to share resources needed to protect the well-being of your business and employees.

This important opportunity will give you the tools you need to rebound from an emergency and be resilient.

Speakers include:

- Julie Clowes from the U.S. Small Business Administration
- Jay Lifson from the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce
- Mark Thorp from the Paradise Chamber of Commerce

Crisis Resiliency Workshop

April 10th, 12pm - 2pm
